Rufus A. Stiles
(c1832–1863)

Son of John Stiles Jr. & Rebecca Cooper

by Timothy Dean Hudson

Rufus A. Stiles is the youngest known child of Jack and Becca Stiles, and his birth about 1832 is the last documentation of their residence in Tennessee. He was probably born while his parents still resided in Franklin County. He lived in his parents' Union County, Arkansas households in 1840 and 1850 [1]. Later that year or in 1851, the extended Stiles family moved from El Dorado/Jackson Townships in the central portion of the county westward into Brown Township, the southwestern corner of Union that became Columbia County in December 1852.

Rufus A. Stiles married on 28 March 1854 in Columbia County, Arkansas to Mary Ann Anderson [2], the daughter of John Monroe Anderson (7 Nov 1817–1 Sep 1903) and Malinda Ann Bryant (22 May 1818–29 Dec 1891). Mary Ann was born on 2 August 1839 in Alabama, but her parents moved to Mississippi soon after her birth. About 1849, the Andersons settled in Brown Township, then in southwestern Union County, Arkansas [3]. This portion of Union County was put into Columbia County in 1852, and in one of its first official acts, on 25 March 1853 the new Columbia County Court appointed "John M. Anderson Esqr." as the apportioning Justice and Dennis Mires, Rufus A. Stiles' brother-in-law, as commissioner to "apportion hands to the overseers of roads in and for Brown Township" [4]. On 4 January 1855, the Court appointed Anderson as the "apportioning Justice" for the newly created Boone Township, just to the north of Brown Township [5].

Between 1855 and 1857, John M. Anderson moved due west from Columbia into the adjoining Lafayette County, and in 1858, he was assessed taxes there on one slave, one horse, one mule, and cattle. By 1860, he had purchased 440 acres of land in Lafayette County valued at $1320 and lived there with his family [6].

Rufus A. Stiles turned twenty-one years in about 1853 or 1854, and this required him to pay a poll tax each year. However, between 1853 and 1857, he was not assessed taxes in either Columbia County, where his siblings lived, or in Lafayette County, where Mary Ann's family lived. It is unclear if his absence was due to the carelessness of a tax assessor or if he and Mary Ann lived elsewhere, perhaps in either north Louisiana or eastern Texas.

Rufus' sisters, Elizabeth Stiles Mires and Jane Stiles Boatright, both left Columbia County with their families in the mid-1850s and moved across the state line into north Louisiana. His older brothers, John N. and George T. Stiles, remained in Columbia and were assessed taxes there in 1856 and 1857 [7]. However, by the end of 1857, George had decided to leave Brown Township in eastern Columbia County where their extended family had settled in late 1850. On 26 December 1857, George and his wife sold the land he had purchased in 1856 [8].

One month later, on 28 January 1858, Rufus A. Stiles went to the new land office in nearby Washington, Arkansas and paid $60 for a 120-acre tract of land in modern Emerson, Arkansas, located some six or seven miles southwest of the old farms of his siblings, George T. Stiles and Jane E. Stiles Boatright, in Brown Township, Columbia County [9]. In 1858, Rufus A. Stiles was assessed Columbia County taxes on one white poll and one horse or mare valued at $50, while his brother, John N. Stiles, was assessed taxes on one horse or mare valued at $75 [10].

Other than his marriage record, these records in 1858 are the only documentation of Rufus A. Stiles in Columbia County. It appears that he and Mary Ann left Columbia after 1858 just as George had left after 1857. In 1859, only John N. Stiles remained, paying taxes on one horse or mare valued at $75 and one cow worth $15. John emigrated from Columbia County in late 1859 or early 1860, for the 1860 Columbia County tax assessment did not include any Stiles for the first time since the county's creation [11].

These records show that Rufus and his brothers underwent a high degree of mobility during the 1850s, especially immediately after their sisters and parents moved away to Louisiana. Although he left Columbia after 1857 and lived elsewhere between 1858 and early 1860, George T. Stiles returned by mid-1860 and thereafter remained in Columbia County [12]. Neither Rufus A. nor John N. Stiles have been located on the 1860 federal census, in either Arkansas or Texas. John N. Stiles moved to northern Arkansas by the latter 1860s, perhaps following relatives.

Sometime between 1858 and 1862, Rufus and Mary Ann Stiles moved their family westward across the state line into Cass (then Davis) and Marion Counties, Texas, located on the state line opposite Caddo Parish, Louisiana and Miller County, Arkansas, at the tri-state intersection of Arkansas, Texas, and Louisiana.

On 31 March 1862, at the age of twenty-nine years old, Rufus enlisted at Jefferson, the county seat of Marion County, as a private in the 19th Regiment (Waterhouse Jr.'s) Texas Infantry, in Capt. C. L. Marshall's Company, later designated as Co. D. His enlistment record shows that he traveled thirty-five miles "to rendezvous," which may indicate he traveled that distance from his home to where he enlisted in the town of Jefferson. That distance would have placed his residence in either Marion or Davis Counties, and his military record gives both counties as his place of enlistment.

In June 1862, the 19th Texas Regiment was ordered to Little Rock, Arkansas, and they arrived at Rondo in August, where disease ravaged the troops. After a month, they left and moved on towards Little Rock, arriving at Camp Nelson on October 24th. Inclement weather, lack of equipment and food, and disease claimed the lives of over one hundred men by the end of the year. In December 1862, the regiment was placed under the command of Maj. Gen. John G. Walker, and it thereafter became known as Walker's Texas Division.

Rufus A. Stiles' commanding officer listed him as present for duty between his enlistment and October 1862, but by December, he was listed as "Absent Sick at Little Rock." On the muster roll of 28 February 1863, his commanding officer recorded that Stiles "Died Jan 18, 1863 at Little Rock." The regiment was not engaged in any military action that month, and Stiles undoubtedly died of disease, but his military file does not give the precise disease that claimed his life [13].

Rufus' widow, Mary Ann Anderson Stiles, remarried in the 1860s to William Henry Rowland (1 Jan 1831–18 Jul 1891) [14]. He had lived in Hickory County, Missouri in 1860 with his first wife and their son, and it is unclear precisely how he ended up in Texas, or when he and Mary Ann married [15]. By 1868, Rowland had settled in Johnson County, just south of Fort Worth, Texas [16], and he and Mary Ann had married by 1870, when their household consisted of his children by his first wife and the three surviving children of Rufus and Mary Ann [17]. Between 1870 and 1880, Mary Ann and William Rowland had moved their family southwest onto a farm in the adjoining Bosque County [18].

William H. Rowland died near Brazos Point in Bosque County on 18 July 1891. In 1900, Mary Ann lived on their farm in Bosque County with her two youngest children [19]. A few years later, she sold her farm and bought a home in Cleburne, Johnson County, where she lived with her young son, Green Berry Rowland, a barber [20]. She died there on 4 October 1917 of uremia and was buried beside William H. Rowland in the Brazos Point Cemetery, Brazos Point, Bosque County, Texas [21].

Children of Rufus A. Stiles & Mary Ann Anderson

Rufus A. Stiles and Mary Ann Anderson had three children who survived to adulthood [1]:

1. Rebecca Ann M. Stiles (Sep 1857–1923) lived with her mother and stepfather in Johnson County, Texas in 1870. She married on 24 January 1878 in Johnson County, Texas to Thomas Cicero Harris Sr. (14 Jan 1853–6 Aug 1934). In 1880, they lived in the household that adjoined her mother Rebecca and stepfather in Bosque County. Rebecca Ann M. Stiles and Thomas Harris are buried in the Clearfork Cemetery, Crystal Falls, Stephens County, Texas [2].
2. John Atlas Stiles was born on 15 December 1860 in Arkansas, and he lived with his mother and stepfather in 1870 and 1880 [3]. He married on 5 August 1891 in Bosque County, Texas to Eva L. Sweeten (11 Oct 1869–10 Jan 1956), daughter of Samuel M. Sweeten (1847–1925) and Rebecca Bible (2 Aug 1842–22 May 1895), who was one-quarter Cherokee [4]. After their marriage, John and Eva had two children in Bosque County before moving north and settling in the land of the Cherokee Nation, in what was then known as Indian Territory. They lived there in 1900 and 1910 in the Inola community that became Rogers County there shortly before 1910. John died there on 1 March 1916, and Eva died in Nevada, Vernon County, Missouri. John A. Stiles and Eva L. Sweeten are buried in the Sweeten Cemetery, Inola, Rogers County, Oklahoma [5].
3. Rufus Marion Stiles was born on 2 October 1862, probably on his maternal grandparents' farm in Lafayette County, Arkansas while his father was serving in the Confederate States Army. Rufus A. Stiles' unit had moved to Little Rock, Arkansas during the summer of 1862, and since his officers listed him as present for duty throughout that year, he probably never met his youngest son prior to his death in January 1863.

   Rufus M. Stiles lived with his mother and stepfather in Johnson County, Texas in 1870, but he did not live in their household in 1880 as his older brother did. Rufus married on 11 December 1884 in Bosque County, Texas to Nancy Canzada Roby [Nannie] (3 Jan 1866–23 Apr 1921), daughter of Robert P. Roby (1835–5 Apr 1891) and Margaret Lott (8 Dec 1841–15 May 1895) [6]. By the 1890s, Rufus and Nannie Stiles settled on a cattle farm in Cedar Valley, Travis County, Texas which he initially rented but later purchased [7].

   Nannie C. Stiles died of heart disease on 23 April 1921 [8], but Rufus continued to live on and operate his farm until his death from asthma on 9 June 1932 [9]. Rufus M. Stiles and Nancy C. Roby are buried in the Oakwood Cemetery Annex, Austin, Travis County, Texas [10].

Notes

1. 1840 Union County AR Federal Census, Jackson Township, p. 222, #9: "John Styles Senr." 1850 Union County AR Federal Census, El Dorado Township, p. 236b, Dwelling #419, line #31: Jack Stiles (age: 66; Farmer; born: "Va"); #32: Rebecca Stiles (age: 56; born: "Va"); #33: "D. T. Stiles" [sic] (age: 24; Farmer; born: Tenn); #34: "Rufus A. Stiles" (age: 18; Farmer; born: "Tenn"). The second reference for Rufus' year of birth comes from his military record referenced below. On 31 March 1862, he was twenty-nine years of age. If his age on the 1850 federal census was accurate, this suggests that his birth occurred between April and December 1832.

Malinda's tombstone appears to have her incorrect age inscribed on it, as 78 years places her birth in May 1813, which is older than her age on census records. Census records suggest a birth year of 1818.

Children of Rufus A. Stiles & Mary Ann Anderson

1. The three children of Rufus A. Stiles and Mary Anderson are shown in the household of William H. and Mary Ann Rowland in the 1870 federal census referenced earlier. The 1880 census shows their middle child, John A. Stiles, still in their household and identifies him as Rowland's stepson.
